SET COUNTY'S RELIEF NEEDS AT $126,000

Commissioners Hold State's Estimate of $86,000 Far Below Requirements.

ASSEMBLY GETS REPORT

House Group Recommends $13,000,000 Program to Meet State's Problem.

While a special investigating committee in the Ohio legislature submitted recommendations today for a solution to the relief problem, Richland county commissioners estimated that it will require $18,000 a month, or $126,000, to care for the county's needy during the rest of the year.

The huge figure only furrowed the brows of city and county officials who can see only $7,000 a month available to meet the relief bills unless a program is enacted by the legislature.

City, Townships Share.

The $7,000 monthly allocation will come from the state under a program set up last winter. The amount is distributed to Mansfield and the county's sub-divisions on the basis of their relief cases.

Meanwhile, the city of Mansfield is seeking common pleas court approval of the proposed transfer of $50,000 from the city's sinking fund to the relief fund. City Auditor Paul Kelley estimated that the transfer, if approved, will provide for the city's relief needs for the rest of the year.

The city took over its own relief burden March 16 when the county relief set-up was revised.

The county borrowed $12,000 on short-period notes several days ago to pay its outstanding relief obligations. In the future its only duty will be to allocate the state funds and keep a record of relief needs and expenditures in the city and county.

Makes $86,000 Estimate.

State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson had set the county's relief needs for the last seven months of the year at $86,000, exclusive of the state aid already assured under the old relief program.

The auditor's figures showed that 22 of the state's 88 counties will need additional money to carry on their relief operations for the remainder of 1938.

After estimating Ohio relief needs for the rest of 1938 at $13,000,000, the special house committee suggested that the legislature set up a relief program that would extend until Feb. 15, 1939, so that no one would be deprived of assistance while the next as-

How to Draw Crowd as June Bride

By the AP Feature Service

SO YOU'RE thinking of getting married this June? Lots of people are, but only a few of the weddings [illegible] much of a splash. If you want yours to attract some real attention, you might stage it like this:

ON HORSEBACK

To be yoked, this Virginia couple climbed into saddles. Everybody else was on horseback, too, except the minister. Rose B. Wallace and George M. Van Horn were the principals.

IN A POOL

Some people are very cautious about marriage, but J. F. Gutrick and Katie Wilson of Los Angeles plunged right in with diving helmets on. The minister looks on as they embrace.

IN WHALE'S MOUTH

The whale was on exhibition, and so were Betty Gentry and J. R. Henderson when they thought up this stunt at Long Beach, Cal. This is the wedding rehearsal.

IN A LAKE

This one wasn't so far-fetched, because Merlin Andrews met Elsie Hagner in the water. He saved her from drowning. Everybody wore bathing suits except the minister.

STAGE SET FOR DEDICATION OF LIBERTY PARK

Association Maps Elaborate Program for 25-Acre Tract Sunday.

PARADE OPENS ACTIVITIES

Seven National Guard Units to March; Governor Expected to Speak in Afternoon.

The Liberty park association today set the stage for elaborate dedication ceremonies Sunday when recognition will be given city officials and public-spirited citizens who helped to make the park possible.

Meeting at the park last night, association members outlined a program for the official dedication of the park which was opened to the public late last summer. Sunday will also mark the opening of the park's new swimming pool for the season.

Cost Over $100,000.

Built by public subscription and with WPA funds and labor, the park covers a 25-acre area in a district that formerly was of no practical use, and represents an expenditure of well over $100,000.

Scheduled for the top place on the Sunday afternoon program is Gov. Martin L. Davey who has been invited to speak at 2.30 p. m. from a platform near the flag pole.

Common Pleas Judge C. H. Huston will make the formal dedication address at 7:30 p. m., and the lowering of the flag a half-hour later will complete the day's program.

Dedicate Fisch Memorial.

Preceding Gov. Davey's talk will be ceremonies dedicating the Fisch memorial in the park, which was built by public subscription in memory of Frank Fisch, one of Mansfield's outstanding athletes who was killed last year in a plane crash in Texas. Rev. R. C. Goebel, pastor of St. Peter's Catholic church will read the dedication ceremony.

The Sunday program will get under way at 2:30 p. m. with a parade of seven National Guard units, an army band and the McVey post, American Legion drum corps through the city from the Legion home on Park Avenue west.

The National Guard battalion will arrive here at 4 p. m. Saturday and will be encamped in a 20-acre field back of the park. The Mansfield Battery D unit will be joined by other 134th field artillery companies from Bucyrus, Galion, Zanesville, Coshocton, Columbus and Chillicothe

Three army planes from Fort Hayes, Columbus, will perform

Organize Manhunt For Kidnapers Of Boy, 5, In Florida

Fear Kidnapers Killed Him

World war veterans, farmers and Boy Scouts, angered by the failure of kidnapers to return James Bailey Cash, jr., shown above, to his parents after they paid a $10,000 ransom demand, organized a manhunt today to find either the kidnapers or the boy's body. They feared that wealthy Florida business man may have been slain despite the ransom payment.

Irate Citizens, Fearing Youngster Dead, Arm For Search.

ABDUCTOR SILENT

Relative Believes Boy Was Killed Despite Ransom Payment.

BULLETIN

PRINCETON, Fla. — (UP) — Hundreds of southern Florida fishermen, war veterans and farmers joined today in a hunt through the fringe of the treacherous Everglades for trace of kidnaped Jimmy Cash. The hunt, delayed on advice of G-men who still hoped the five-year-old boy might be returned safely, began shortly after noon while Federal Bureau of Investigation agents questioned M. F. Braxton, a middle-aged Princeton carpenter.

(By Associated Press)

PRINCETON, Fla. — With hope virtually abandoned that kidnapers of five-year-old James Bailey Cash, jr., would return him alive, the aroused farmers of the Redlands district organized a vast manhunt today.

"I talked with the family and nothing whatever happened last night," said W. P. Cash, the boy's uncle. "The case is exactly where it was yesterday only it is one day worse.

"I've given up all hope the boy will be found alive. I didn't have much hope from the start, but I feel that last night was the last chance for him to return alive."

Would Permit Hunt.

The overalled Cash, who runs a rival filling station to that owned by James Cash, Sr., indicated his brother now was willing for the posses to take to the fields since 24 hours had elapsed after he paid the $10,000 ransom with no word from the abductors.

The temper of the crowd, however, was to start searching regardless of whether the family and authorities were willing. Grizzled, sun-browned citrus growers and truck farmers with pistols on their hips and shotguns in their cars voiced threats against the men who snatched little "Skeegie" last Saturday night.

National guardsmen, war veterans and 1,600 Boy Scouts were ready to join the farmers in the search. They were pessimistic about catching the kidnapers now

FUND DRIVE'S TOTAL SHRINKS

Audit of Pledge Cards Shows $500 Over-reported; $5,700 Needed to Reach Goal.

The 1938 Community Fund campaign, scheduled to end May 21 but carried on in an effort to reach the goal of $53,950 took on a gloomier outlook today when reports made at the luncheon meeting showed the total today was less than the amount listed last week.

Arthur L. Hughes, general chairman of the campaign, said that an audit of the pledge cards to date revealed that $500 had been over-reported so that the amount raised up to this week was $47,867 instead of $48,368.

Only $350 was reported today, leaving the amount reported to date at $48,248, which is $5,702 short of the goal. The only divisions reporting today were financial, $351; public utilities, $10, and clothing stores, $19.

Plans were made for a "mop-up" campaign in which the aid of all the governing boards of the 10 agencies of the Community Fund will be asked to help. The campaign committee and officers of the agency boards will meet at 7:30 p m. next Tuesday at the Sherman room of the Public library.

Sidney L. Palmer, executive secretary of the Community Fund, will compile a list of names of individuals who will be contacted in the clean-up drive.

June Weddings Still Barometer of Times

Marriages During 'Month of Brides' In Boom Years Twice Number Recorded In County When Going's Tough.

The three-month season beginning June 1 is one of roses, vacations, conventions and brides—but it's the month of June that gives the Lohengrin Wedding March its greatest workout.

While July and August frequently approach the June figures for weddings, the first summer month manages to retain its supremacy as the brides' month year in and year out.

June, 1929, Holds Record.

Economic wizards have never admitted it, but June is probably as good a barometer of the times as anything—for in boom years there are more than twice as many weddings as in depression years. In the boom year of 1929 there were 80 marriage licenses issued in June in Richland county, in June, 1932, in the middle of the depression, there were only 32 Last June 68 licenses were issued and in 1936 there were 72.

But indications are that there will be fewer "I do's" exchanged this year in the month of brides than last year. The year did not start out promisingly for the good ship Matrimony either, for there were only 116 licenses issued the first five months of 1938 as compared with 144 in the same period last year.

The first week in June last year saw 22 brides blush becomingly as they promised to love, honor and obey, while only six weddings are scheduled for the first four days of June.

While a few fadists go in for novelty weddings—witness the pictures shown above,—the average girl wants to say her wedding vows in the old, conventional manner. As for the June groom—well, he never has been particularly important except from the standpoint of attendance.

STILL WAITING

75,000 Cleveland Reliefers Look to Legislators.

CLEVELAND —(UP)— Seventy-five thousand relief clients were without the necessities of life again today.

They subsisted on food provided by the federal surplus commodities corporation and awaited action by the state legislature at Columbus, expected today or tomorrow.

Mayor Harold H. Burton said he was so certain that legislators would act shortly that he did not plan to ask city council to take emergency action again.

Curtailment of city services began today as the result of four transfers of city funds for relief already. All street-cleaning workers were laid off for one week.

STIRS ALARM

Shooting of Sudeten Germans Causes New Czech Tension.

PRAGUE—(INS)—A new inflammatory incident of the type feared by the whole world since German-Czechoslovakian tension arose to an alarming degree occurred today when two Sudeten Germans were shot by Czech bullets at Eger.

The shootings occurred in a cafe in the same Sudeten town where only a few weeks ago two Germans were shot and killed by Czech police while allegedly attempting to run a blockade on motorcycles.

It was this first incident, occurring the day before Czech municipal elections were to begin, that precipitated the grave situation which many feared would culminate in a Nazi march on Czechoslovakia.

Official statement issued here sought to minimize the incident by declaring the shootings were not intentional.

C. of C.'s Call on Ashbrook to Help Speed 'Cut-off' Paving

Determined to get action on the paving of the Windsor cut-off on route 42, committees of the Mansfield and Ashland Chambers of Commerce today had decided to call on Congressman William A. Ashbrook to help obtain the release of the project from the federal bureau of public roads.

Meeting here last night, the streets and highway committees of the two organizations voted to contact Ashbrook immediately and learn the status of the job which was launched four years ago.

Boyd Wierman, resident state highway engineer for Richland county, told the group that the project was ready and that division officials of the state highway department were awaiting the advertising for bids on the paving.

"The plans were approved by the department in Columbus last September," Wierman said. "They were sent to Washington for approval in January and are there now awaiting federal approval."

G. A. Berry of Ashland, location and designing engineer, representing division engineer I. R. Ault, told the group that he was expecting "approval of the project from Washington any day."

He said that a 50-50 matching of funds had been made by the state and federal government and that approximately $260,000 had been allocated.

The improvement, which is 3.59 miles in length, was started in 1934 as a CWA project and has met with numerous delays because of the lack of funds and recently disputes over right-of-ways for the new road.

BOY DROWNED

Steps Into Hole While Wading in River Near Greenwich.

GREENWICH—Losing his balance when he stepped into a hole while wading in the Vermilion river near here, Kenneth Pettet, 11-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Pettet of Riplay township was drowned yesterday afternoon.

The boy and his three companions were unable to swim. Unable to recover the body, two of the boys ran to the home of the boy's brother three miles from the scene of the tragedy for assistance while the other remained at the river.

Dr. J. D. Bradish, Huron county coroner, gave a verdict of accidental drowning.

The survivors besides the parents include four brothers, Donald, five miles southeast of Greenwich, with whom the boy made his home the last two years; Robert, Ralph and Charles, and three sisters, Corrine, Audrey and Ruth.

COLUMBUS —(UP)— Dr. Francis E. Townsend, originator of the Townsend old age pension plan, was to make his first appearance before an Ohio legislative committee today.

Dr. Townsend was to speak before the senate taxation and relief committee in support of the McCluskey joint resolution asking congress to submit a constitutional amendment for ratification proposing the levying of a two per cent gross tax on all business transactions and transfer of money and property to finance pension payments.

More than 30 Townsend club members from Richland county went to Columbus to hear Townsend speak.

Troops Seize Crops, Livestock Break Dike Sending Flood Waters Pouring Over Agriculture Lands.

(By United Press)

PEIPING—More than 1,000,000 civilians face starvation in the battle area southwest of Tientsin where there has been no harvest since the spring of 1937, according to reports made public today by the ministry of rehabilitation of the Japanese-sponsored North China provisional government.

Both Chinese and Japanese armies swept across the countryside last fall, destroying, burning and looting villages and confiscating livestock. More important, the grand canal and other dykes were cut, causing floods which disrupted the autumn harvest and planting.

Wide Areas Flooded.

A sector from Pahsien to Tsangchow has been converted into a vast inland sea dotted with tiny villages which had been built on mounds. They stretched to the horizon in all directions.

Boats were the only communication between the villages, which were not entirely deserted. South of Tsangchow the fields were dry but not a single draft animal was seen plowing or cultivating. Only a few people worked in the fields.

The report of the ministry of rehabilitation said that there had been no crops at Chingshien, 40 miles south of Tientsin, since last summer.

The people wander over the fields, knee deep in mud, digging out rotten sweet potatoes. This is now practically the only food available.

PRESS SEARCH

G-Men Probe Into Bay to Find Levine Boy's Severed Head.

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y.—(INS)—Police and G-men searched with grappling irons today in an effort to find the severed head of Peter Levine, 12-year-old kidnaped son of Attorney Murray Levine.

The youthful Levine's torso with feet, hands and head missing was discovered in Echo Bay near here. The boy had been kidnaped 74 days before, and in spite of his father's offer to pay the $30,000 ransom demanded, the child was murdered.

Lack of concrete clues delayed the manhunt. The sole clue was a five foot strand of wire that had been wound about the boy's body. The wire was being subjected to tests by FBI scientists in hope that it would prove as beneficial as the wood in the Lindbergh kidnap ladder proved in the case against Bruno Hauptmann.

Youth Says Miss Lee Favors Girls

By VIRGINIA LEE

You will remember that several times in this column I have had letters from girls who have been in love with men, loved them devotedly for years, and then been deserted.

I have sympathized with these women who have loved "not wisely, but too well," and told them to "pick up the pieces," as it were, and start over again. That there is no use "crying over spilt milk," or mournnig too much when love of that kind flees.

One of our readers, a man, says he found one of these letters recently while looking over some old newspapers. He thinks I expend too much sympathy on women. What of the man who is jilted for another?

He had just such an experience, he states. He went with a young woman for four years. "She had given me every reason to believe she loved me," he writes, "by her words, acts and deeds. One lovely Sunday two years ago she suddenly said, 'I don't love you any more,' and returned the engagement ring. Now, I ask you, is a man supposed to take it and not say a thing? Of course he is and be a gentleman! It's different; the shoe is on the other foot. But oh, if a man jilts a woman he's a cad, a good for nothing, a bounder!

"For four years, when jobs were hard to get, I spent time, money and energy on this girl, I don't regret it and I don't hate the girl nor am I a woman hater. But I certainly don't agree with you when you leave a reader to understand all we men who receive, accept, either voluntarily or otherwise, all a woman can give, and then are apt to run off with someone else, are devils. It's just as apt to happen on one side as on the other.

"I felt pretty low for awhile after being given the goodby, but now it is all right. An old friendship made nearly ten years ago seems to be blossoming into the real thing. Time alone can tell, and 'all's well that ends well.' So tell the girls who feel a man has wronged them that they will recover and it's often 'even Steven.'

"JUST A READER."

You wrong me, my friend, for I am sure it has ever been my aim in this column to stand up for those who are injured, whether they be male or female. Fickleness and disloyalty are human traits that are to be deplored, and a girl who is untrue to the man she professes to love and betrays him is just as bad as a man who deserts the woman who has given herself to him.

If we could only train ourselves to be unemotional about such matters! But we can't seem to be calm where our affections are concerned, and I insist it is the wise girl who doesn't give herself entirely to a man until she marries him. And say what you will, the girl who does is more handicapped when she is jilted than the man. It is the way of the world at the present time.

Glad you have found a new love.

HOROSCOPE

For Thursday, June 2.

This may be a day in which some matters may be productive and progressive, judging by the solar and lunar aspects, but certain configurations may bring rather difficult, surprising and perplexing conditions to be met with decisiveness and shrewdness. Errors in handling these may cause regrettable annoyance. Jealousy or enmity may be at the root of this, but friends may be counted on for help, and generally things should be pleasant and prosperous.

If This Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is may expect a lively, progressive and prosperous year, although there may be a certain rather perplexing or intriguing situation to confront. Envy or jealousy may be at the root of this, but generally friends will prove dependable and a pleasant atmosphere should prevail.

A child born on this day may be a very pleasant and congenial character, although given to small jealousies and enmities. It may be artistically inclined and should find favors with superiors and employers.

To clean the inside of cut glass vases or decanters mix a small quantity of vinegar with a handful of salt; put a little in each decanter and shake well. Afterward rinse well in clear water.

"The Authority on Authorities"

MINIMIZE YOUR RISK

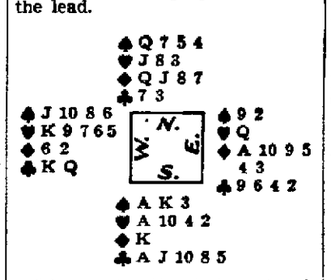
Scientific play of a no trump contract is frequently a matter of minimizing your risks. By so doing, you conversely increase your chances of success. Usually one defender is more dangerous than the other and efforts must be concentrated on keeping him out of the lead.



(Dealer: South. East-West vulnerable.)

At all tables in a duplicate the final contract on this deal was 3-No Trumps. The South players opened with 1-Club, North responded with 1-Diamond, South 1-Heart, North 1-Spade, South 2-No Trumps and North three. The contract was made with two overtricks at some tables and defeated at others, all depending upon how the South players handled the club suit.

The heart 6 was the opening lead, which was won with the A. The diamond K was allowed to hold, and West won with the heart K the return lead of that suit. He followed with a heart to the J. Now the club finesse was tried and lost to West, who led another heart to South's 10. Those who failed to make the contract entered dummy with the spade Q and took another club finesse which lost to West, who cashed another heart and led a diamond to East's A.

The contract was made by those who on the seventh trick laid down the club A, figuring they could afford to lose a club trick to East but not to West. Played in that way, only two tricks were lost.

Hair Now Should Be Treated

By JULIET SHELBY

(Central Press Writer on Beauty)

If you have been troubled with oily, lack-luster hair all winter don't be discouraged. Now is the ideal time of all the seasons of the year to correct that condition. The warm weather, gentle breezes and sunshine are all on your side. It is warm enough to dry your hair outside after a shampoo. You can even set it yourself and let it dry outdoors. That will eliminate the dryer and will be most beneficial for your hair.

Don't let them tell you that your hair and scalp shouldn't be brushed just because it is oily. You ought to brush just as much as the girl with dry hair. Brushing strengthens the too relaxed oil glands and that is what causes the hair to be oily. It also removes excess oil accumulations.

You should shampoo your hair every week, and if it seems excessively soiled or oily it is advisable to shampoo it twice. Rinse your hair several times in warm water so that all the lather, with its accumulation of body secretions, dirt and oil are removed. Always use warm water for your final rinse, as it tends to soften the hair. Fluffing your hair with your hands and a brush lets the air circulate through and aids in drying the surface oil. Rubbing in a slightly drying mildly antiseptic hair tonic after your hair is dry acts as a bracer and helps to retard the reappearance of oil.

Tight hats should not be worn too long at a time, as they interfere with the circulation of blood in the scalp that keeps the papilla stimulated and nourished. It is really best to avoid tight hats and bands completely, and to expose the hair to light and air as much as possible. Don't, however, stay in the sun so much that your hair is burned and bleached.

Dry Shampoo Helps.

A dry shampoo is a good occasional cleanser for your type of hair. It is especially good when you want your hair to look its best for some special occasion. You can give yourself a dry shampoo between your regular shampoos and it will make the hair look clean and fluffy. Powdered orris root is a fine dry shampoo. Sprinkle it through your hair and let it stay on for five of ten minutes. This will give the powder time to absorb the oil from your hair and scalp. Then wrap your brush with a piece of clean gauze and brush the orris root out. If your hair is particularly oily you can repeat the whole procedure. Be sure to brush and brush until all the powder is removed. With it will go the soil and oil and your hair will shine with a lustrous, clean sheen.

RASPBERRY TAPIOCA — Drain the juice from a can of red raspberries and cook two tablespoons of quick cooking tapioca in it in double boiler until the tapioca is done and clear. Take from fire, add one-fourth teaspoon salt and return to double boiler and let cook for five minutes longer. Remove from fire and pour into mold. Chill and serve plain or with whipped cream.

When cleaning oilcloth do not use either soap or ammonia, as they fade the colors and give a dull look. Wash with a flannel wrung out in warm water and rinse over with skimmed milk. Rub with a dry cloth and a beautiful gloss will result.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

I TRY hard not to be a "partisan mother," who believes her own child to be right in any controversy no matter what the evidence against him. But I think most other mothers can understand the anger which welled within me against Junior's cousins, Hank and Roderick, when Katherine told me of what she suspected them to be planning.

"If they pillory my boy because he broke down under severe nervous tension and sobbed," I broke out angrily. "I'll—"

"No you won't," Katherine said soothingly, "because there'll be no need. For the next day or two, we'll manage unobtrusively to see that Junior is never left with Hank or Roderick, without you or me, or Mother Graham, or Bill, or even Jim or Katie within hearing. I think we could take your faithful helpers into our confidence to that extent. Can't you hear Katie?—'Vot—dot limb of Satan, boddering my Junior? Shoost let me hear dem vunce, dot's all I ask.'"

Aimed At Laugh.

Her clever mimicry of Katie elicited a laugh from me, something, I knew, at which she had aimed.

"I doubt whether we would better enlist Katie's aid," I told her, smiling. "We probably would have what Dicky would call a man-sized brawl on our hands."

"Probably you're right," I said, and then I saw her lift her head as if listening. I know how almost preternaturally sharp are her ears, and waited until she said abruptly. "Where are Junior and Roderick?"

"Junior is in his father's room looking over a pile of drawings that Dicky lets him go over occasionally, and Roderick is taking a shower in my bathroom."

"Are you sure of that?" she asked

"That's where I left them. Why?"

"I thought I heard something," she said. Then she turned to Faith, who had finished her meal, lifted her out of her high chair, wiped her sticky little face and hands with expert quickness, and, setting her down in the safety of her play pen, gave her two or three of her favorite toys.

"Her world is 'safe for democracy' for a minute or two," she said. "Let's take a lamp on what's going on."

She opened the door cautiously, her finger laid against her lips, and looked into the corridor. Then she turned her face to me.

"Quick!" she whispered. "Into that alcove corner behind the screen before he sees us."

I knew the corner she meant, the one nearest Dicky's door, a vantage point which, sheltered by a screen, effectually concealed the presence of any one ensconced behind it.

Cautiously but swiftly I edged into the corridor and stole noiselessly to the place she indicated, followed closely by Katherine. When we were safely behind it she put her lips to my ear.

"Did you see him?" she whispered.

I nodded, for indeed Roderick was in full view, or rather his back was. He had preceded us down the hall, arrayed in bathrobe and slippers, and palpably was putting all his trust in my being too absorbed in Baby Faith to come out into the hall.

Taunting Junior.

He was bent down with his lips to the keyhole, and was calling through it in low but distinct tones.

"Well, cry baby! What do you think you're doing?" he repeated two or three times without eliciting any answer. I think Katherine had the same vision that I had, of a baited small boy inside the room, standing with clenched fists and with breath coming fast, resolved that he would not disgrace himself with another ebullition of temper, come what may.

Without conscious volition, I took a step toward him, but Katherine grasped my arm.

"Not yet!" she whispered. "Wait! I'd like to have him hang himself to this rope without any mistake in the process."

"Soft snap you have, sissy cry baby!" Roderick went on. "Sobbing on your mammy's shoulder, until she locks you up in pappy's room, so the big bad wolf won't get you."

Again I took an angry step forward, and again Katherine restrained me. I realized the next second that her ears again had been quicker than mine.

For from just outside the screen, Bill's voice sounded.

"Just what do you think you're doing, Rod?" he asked quietly.

Clever Conversation Wins, Friends.

Good Vocabulary Wins Friends.

Bill can't wait for his next date with Dot.

He can almost see her happy smile, the friendly twinkle in her eye. Her shining vocabulary gives her talk charm.

How he chuckles when she tells him about the Jonses' new French poodle, "just like a clump of neatly trimmed shrubbery rushing out to greet you."

And how his mouth waters as she speaks those "crisp, golden waffles," she's planning for Sunday breakfast. (Can YOU make commonplace things vivid and amusing?)

Because she keeps her eyes open, picks up fresh colorful words and phrases from newspapers and magazines, Dot never resorts to worn-out comebacks like "You're telling me!" (How's YOUR repartee?)

And she's correct. You don't catch her saying "between you and I" for "between you and me," hadn't ought" for "ought not." (What's YOUR score on errors?)

Chatting with old friends, meeting new ones, or talking to the boss, you need a good vocabulary—and our 32-page booklet tells you how to build it.

Send 10c for your copy of HOW TO IMPROVE YOUR VOCABULARY to The Mansfield News-Journal, Home Service, 635 Sixth Ave., New York, N. Y. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, and the NAME of booklet.

Household Hints

Menu Hint.

Finnan Haddie al la Delmonico
Baked Potatoes Buttered Broccoli
Spiced Pears
Lettuce with French Dressing
Raspberry Tapioca Pudding
Coffee

There are a number of casserole dishes made with fish that are delicious and can be varied. For instance, you can use finnan haddie in this dish or you can use crab meat, salmon, tuna or cod fish. You can add a few fresh or canned mushrooms to the dish, too, and you can omit the cheese if you do not care for it.

Today's Recipes.

FINNAN HADDIE A LA DELMONICO—One cup finnan haddie, cut in strips, four hard-cooked eggs, sliced, two tablespoons butter, two tablespoons flour, one cup milk, dash cayenne, one tablespoon chopped parsley, one-fourth cup grated American cheese. Cover fish with cold water. Place over a low heat and heat water to boiling. Simmer 25 minutes. Drain and rinse thoroughly. In the meantime hard cook eggs and make white sauce. To make the sauce, melt butter, blend in flour and add milk gradually, add a dash of cayenne and the parsley. Flake fish. Slice eggs. Combine in a greased baking dish. Pour sauce over all. Sprinkle cheese over the top and bake in a hot oven, about 15 minutes, to heat ingredients and brown cheese.

When a shoe bag sags and tends to tear away from its hooks, run a narrow curtain rod through the top hem.

Six Qualify For U. S. Open

Servis Lone Ohio Amateur to Gain Place.

COLUMBUS—(UP)—A youthful amateur star and five professionals today formed the contingent that qualified in Ohio's two tests for the national open golf tournament that will be held June 9-11 at Denver, Col.

The lone amateur to battle his way through the fields at Cincinnati and Cleveland was stocky Bob Servis of Dayton, long one of the state's greatest young shotmakers. Qualifying with Servis at Cincinnati were Verl Stinchcomb of Maysville, Ky.; Jock Willowett, Dayton, and Bunny Berning of Cincinnati.

The linksmen who made the grade at Cleveland were Bob Shave, Al Espinosa of Akron and Jack Thompson of Youngstown.

HAGEN FAILS TO GAIN PLACE IN U. S. OPEN

NEW YORK (AP)—A fanciful old name, Walter Hagen, . . . of the U. S. open title in 1914 and 1919—was missing today as the field for the 42nd open golf championship was trimmed to 150 players who will participate in the tournament June 9-11 at the Cherry Hills club, Denver, Colo.

Hagen just back from a year's world tour with Joe Kirkwood was the major casualty yesterday.

DAVE BROWN RESIGNS AS SCOTT TRACK COACH

TOLERO — (UP)—The resignation of Dave Brown as track coach at Toledo Scott high school was announced here today. Brown will now devote his full time to his coaching duties at the University of Toledo. Brown compiled one of the finest records of any schoolboy coach in the nation while at Scott. His teams never lost a dual meet and three times in the past five years they gained the Ohio Inter-Scholastic championship. The third title was gained last Saturday.

Welterweight King Suffers Terrible Whipping In Title Bout Before 28,000 Spectators.

By LESLIE AVERY

NEW YORK—(UP)—Barney Ross demonstrated last night that he has a yard of courage for each inch of his height and today he retired from the ring to enter the women's apparel business.

Ross promised himself that he would take only one beating and he took it from Henry Armstrong last night. The 28,000 spectators in Madison Square Garden's Long Island Bowl were treated to a savage orgy.

Ross was whipped from the third round on; he was helpless, his body and head seemed blood-soaked jelly under the ring lights, and each time Armstrong's iron fists struck, the gore splashed. But at the end of the 15th round, Ross still was on his feet, and, moreover, his leaden arms were trying pathetically to carry blows to the man who had butchered him.

From the 11th round on, spectators shouted to Refereee Art Donovan to stop it.

'No Alibis'—Ross.

Ross, who in nine years in the professional ring has met and defeated the best and who was, until he met a younger and better fighting man, welterweight champion, was a gracious but proud gladiator in defeat.

"I am through," he said. "I lost to a better man. I have no alibis."

A year ago Ross beat Jimmy McLarnin and took his title. McLarnin announced his retirement through his battered lips and Ross, overjoyed with victory, told about the men he was going to lick in the future. That little drama was repeated today, for, as Ross nursed his lumps, the victor, Armstrong, 25 year old colored boy who in three years of a professional career has made himself both featherweight and welterweight champion, looked forward jubilantly to the new worlds he intends to conquer.

By winning last night he gained a match with Lou Ambers, the lightweight champion. This is scheduled for July 26. Henry intends then to become the first man champion of three divisions simultaneously.

Armstrong demonstrated last night that pound for pound he is one of the greatest fighting men of all time. He set a terrific pace from the first round to the last, he never ceased throwing punches, he never slowed, he was the perfect fighting machine.

Too Much Pride.

Ross' pride was the prime ingredient of his torture. He had never been knocked out and he intended to end his career on his feet. He had made his manager, Sam Pian, swear he would never, under any circumstance, throw a towel into a ring where he was fighting.

The first two rounds were fairly even, but in the third Armstrong's superior strength and skill asserted itself. From then on, he hit Ross almost at will and by the fifth the champion's right eye was swollen shut and his mouth dripped blood.

At the end of the sixth, Ross was gasping for breath, his mouth wide open. In the seventh, his chest was gory from his dripping mouth and nose and his eye was horribly swollen. By the eighth, he could hardly see at all and could do little but stand and take it.

At the end of the 10th, Donovan, hoping Ross would surrender, asked how he felt. "All right," growled Ross through his mangled lips. In the 11th Ross reeled around the ring and seemed out on his feet. Donovan appealed to Pian to throw in the towel. Pian, his face a mask of agony, shook his head.

The 12th, 13th, 14th were all alike. Ross was Armstrong's chopping block. Then, in the 15th and final round, Ross' courage bubbled up and came charging out at its tormentor, thirsting for combat. The heavy fists landed a few good blows, but Armstrong wasn't hurt. He stilled the attack, and, when the bell rang, he was hammering away at the bleeding face.

Not Same Ross.

"I found out in the first round that Ross didn't have his old time punch," Armstrong said. "With nothing to fear, all I had to do was low him up as quick as I could. He never hurt me once, though I did hurt myself when a left hook hit the top of his head. My thumb and forefinger are pretty sore."

Promoter Jacobs announced last night's paid attendance as 26,430, the gross at 28,290. The gross gate was $160 860 64, the net $136,-015 58.

City League Opens Monday

Four Park Teams Make Up Major Softball Loop.

Promising to stage one of the tightest races in the history of the circuit, the four clubs entered in the City Class A softball league are making ready this week to open their season next Monday.

Teams entered in the city's premier league will represent four Mansfield parks—Liberty, Johns, North and Prospect.

Better Balanced.

The rosters of the teams are not definitely set, but, according to Sam Hollingsworth, president of the league, the circuit will be better balanced than in any recent season.

Hollingsworth expects the race to be a "dog-fight" all the way.

Teams this year will be representative of the district in which the parks are located. The city has been divided into four districts, and players can play only with the clubs in their districts. This plan will eliminate the possibility of any of the teams recruiting all of the city's leading softball performers as has been done on occasions in the past, Hollingsworth said.

Games will be played each Monday until Aug. 22 without a break in the schedule, weather permitting.

Permitted 15 Players.

Each team will be permitted to carry 15 players, and no changes may be made in the personnel of the clubs except by a ruling of the executive board after July 1.

The opening games Monday will pit Liberty park against Johns park at Liberty park and North Park against Prospect park at Prospect park.

Headline Card At Possum Run

The Metal Vaults face Ohio Public Service the Grocers meet Auxter's club and The News-Journal tangles with the Elks.

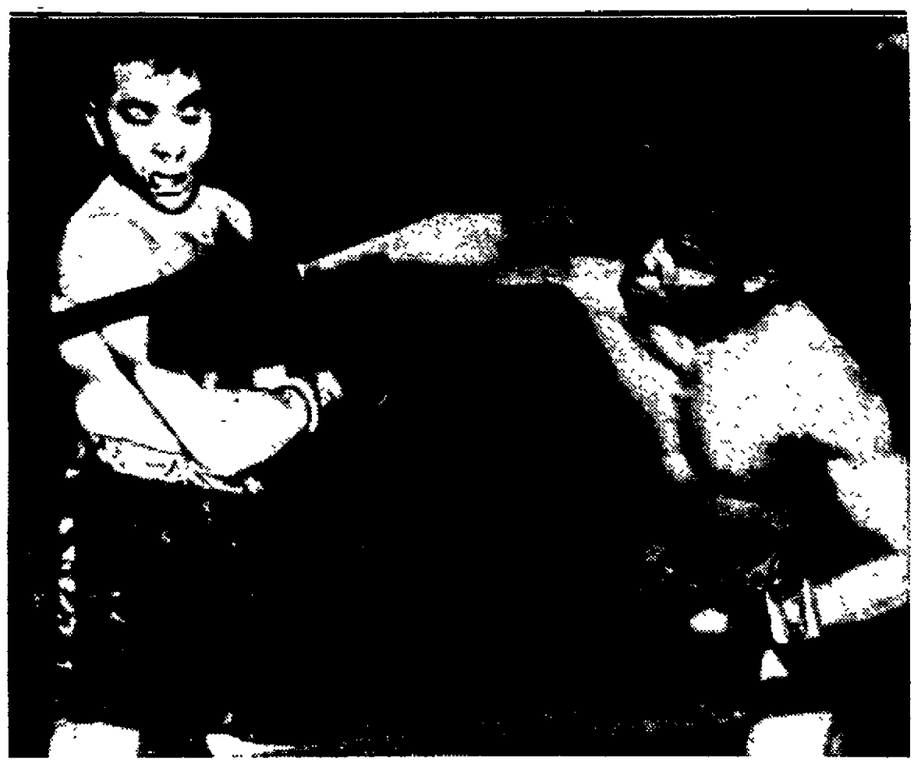
Armstrong Beats Ross to Win Second Title



One of the greatest exhibitions of continuous punching power and stamina ever seen in the ring was that of Hammering Henry Armstrong, colored featherweight champion of the world who won his second title by administering a terrific drubbing to Barney Ross, winning the Chicagoan's welterweight championship in 15 rounds at Madison Square Garden's Long Island Bowl last night. Ross is shown trying to cover up in the tenth round from the furious advance of Armstrong, who kept up a never-ending onslaught during the entire fight. A crowd estimated at 30,000 witnessed the battle.—Central Press.

Harder Faces Macks Today

PHILADELPHIA—(AP)— Manager Oscar Vitt ordered Mel Harder to the mound for the Cleveland Indians today as they opened their second eastern tour of the season. Ross was Connie Mack's choice to hurl for the Athletics.

Word from the Indians' doctor that Catcher Rollie Hemsley would be out of the lineup for possibly three weeks with a fractured little finger gave Ol' Os' Vitt serious worry. The injury, sustained in St. Louis last week-end, left the Redskins with Frankie Pytlak their only experienced backstop.

Lou Laughs at Suggestion To Rest After 2,000th Game

By GEORGE KIRKSEY

NEW YORK—(UP)—Thirteen years ago today the late Miller Huggins looked down the Yankee bench and motioned to a raw recruit to go in and pinch-hit.

The young busher just up from Hartford slashed out a single, and the next day he replaced Wally Pipp at first base in the Yanks' lineup. From then on Lou Gehrig has played every day—aches or pains, sick or well. In that time he's played 2,000 consecutive games, more than any other player in history. And today he gets ready to play No. 2,001 and he says he isn't going to stop until he makes it 2,500.

Broke Scott's Mark.

Long ago Gehrig broke the previous mark of 1,307 set by Deacon Scott—a record which once seemed beyond approach. In 7,455 times at bat, Gehrig has made 2,559 hits, scored 1,785 runs, hit 468 home runs, driven in 1,897 runs and has a lifetime major league batting average of .343.

Take a test?—Gehrig laughs at the suggestion.

"I like to play baseball and I'm going to keep on as long as I can do my job. I wouldn't think of sitting on the bench."

Gehrig clicked off No. 2,000 yesterday as the Yanks came from behind to defeat the Boston Red Sox, 12-5, in the only major league game. He went to bat four times, made a single in the eighth to drive in a run and handled 14 chances perfectly afield.

The Yanks' iron man, now approaching 35, took the occasion lightly. "No fuss, please," he remarked. "It's just another ball game."

Bases Loaded, Too.

Gehrig's rival first baseman, Jimmy Foxx, had a brief moment of triumph when he clouted a home run with the bases loaded in the fifth inning but it was the Red Sox's only serious rally, as Joe Beggs and Johnny Murphy combined to pitch a five-hit game.

The victory enabled the Yanks to cut Cleveland's American league lead to three games.

Leaders Meet In Top Game

One game is certain to change the standings in the Y. M. C. A. Commercial softball league today.

In the feature game on the third week's program, Tappan Stoves and Nick's Place, two of the three undefeated teams in the league, collide at Liberty park.

These two teams have registered two victories apiece, and share the lead with the Dominion Electrics, who meet the All-State Freights at Prospect park.

Two of the teams which have not yet won league victories, Page Dairys and Sweet Oils, meet at Empire field, and the Hartman Electrics and Miller Dairys battle at North park.

GOLDSMITH'S Clothiers leaped into first place in The News-Journal Class A golf league at Possum Run yesterday.

Sweeping their match with the Matthes Clothiers, the Goldsmith shotmakers moved into the front position by a margin of two points. The Clothiers replaced the Richland Printers, who were dropped into the runner-up position by the Yuncker Sports.

Retain Third Place.

The Big Three Beers retained third place by taking a 2 to 1 decision from the DeLuxe Cabs, with one match point and team point in doubt because of a postponement.

The scoring was not exceptional, but the Goldsmith golfers played just well enough to take advantage of the Matthes team's erratic shooting.

Frank Vild, No. 4 man, was low for the Goldsmith foursome with an even 40. Pilot shot a 41, Zeides rolled out a 42 and Mihalic was high with a 45.

Only two players broke 40. Pete Linster of the Printers cracked through with a 37 to lead his teammates to a 3 to 2 triumph over the Sports, and Deley shot a 39 for the Cabs.

Linster and Frantz won the match points for the Printers, while Kleshinski and Leuthner counted for the Sports.

Wins Lone Point.

Deley's 39 accounted for the only match point acquired by the Cabs, beating Jesson, who had a 41. Bell and Loykovich hung up the Big Three points.

1888-1938 50 Years Of U. S. Golf

By GARDNER SOULE

THE AVERAGE masculine golfer (if there is such a person) uses about 18 golf balls a year. A woman golfer uses about six. Total annual consumption of golf balls by U. S. players is around 1,350,000 dozen; the cost of the golf balls is around $5,500,000.

Hugh Ferguson Collects Ace

Mansfield golfers have found the range, it appears. The second hole-in-one scored in four days on Mansfield courses was hung up yesterday by Hugh Ferguson, a Westinghouse employe, at Possum Run.

Using a six iron, Ferguson holed out with his tee shot on the 158-yard No. 7 hole. Ferguson shot the inside nine in 37. Lee Arntz was a witness to the feat.

The first ace of the year was shot Saturday at Westbrook country club by Bart Haley.

INDUSTRIALS RALLY AFTER SLOW OPENING

Up Fractions to Around Two Points Near Second Hour; Commodities Steady.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Stocks took an upward slant today after the market had made a hesitant start.

Leading industrial shares ran up for gains of fractions to around 2 points near the second hour as traders got aboard for a rally. Absence of extensive liquidation lately in face of the sharp fall in commodities and poor business news was accepted by analysts as indication the market had a good technical foundation for a recovery.

Commodities also found a steadier path. Bonds were uneven in quiet dealings.

Public offering of $33,000,000 Commonwealth Edison 3½ per cent bonds started what was expected to be the biggest month for new corporate financing in more than a year.

Bond men were hopeful the June run of new issues would mark a real revival of the capital market, aided by a rising surplus of bank funds.

THEATER

HOLLYWOOD CHATTER: At least two film stars were honored by their home towns on the special cachets issued by post offices during air mail week. Cadiz, O., had a picture of its famous son, Clark Gable, reading the home town paper on its cachet, while Beverly Hills postoffice featured a likeness of Will Rogers. . . . A persisten rumor is that Annabella will give up her Hollywood career to return to Europe where she is a top ranking star. . . . But the same rumor ran around about Simone Simon, and she has answered it by taking a three-year lease on a house at Bel-Air and placing her younger brother in school in Hollywood. . . . Following "The Great Waltz," Luise Rainier is scheduled to make "Dramatic School" which concerns the Royal Academy of Acting in Budapest. . . .

Mickey Plays Cupid.

Mickey Rooney, one of the most convincing and natural of all the juvenile actors, and firmly established in the regard of movie goers, plays the kid brother of Maureen O'Sullivan in "Hold That Kiss," opening at the Ohio theater today. He aids cupid in his own way and with effective results. Dennis O'Keefe, a newcomer in the ranks of Hollywood leading men, plays opposite Miss O'Sullivan in an interesting game of make-believe. They both pretend to be millionaires and their great embarrassment comes when a real millionaire gives them a St. Bernard dog that eats so much neither can afford to keep him. The picture replaces "Bluebeard's Eighth Wife" which was originally scheduled for five days.

Jane Turns Gypsy.

Jane Withers brings her bag of tricks to the Madison Thursday for a three-day engagement of her new picture "Rascals." Probably the presence of Borrah Minevitch and his Harmonica Rascals gives the picture its name. Jane turns gypsy for the picture and is one of a band of gypsies traveling about the country in decrepit wagons. By chance of circumstances there is a college boy in the camp and when a lovely girl, suffering from amnesia, stumbles into camp after an auto accident, Jane as usual works in the best interests of Cupid. Rochelle Hudson and Robert Wilcox provide romance. Three new tunes are introduced.

Unusual Situation.

The unusual situation of a beautiful English girl as the "wife in name only" of a Chinese war lord is worked out in "Wife of General Ling," one of the Majestic attractions this week. The dramatic Russian actor, Inkijinoff, is featured in this British-made film. A romance between an English secret service agent and the girl precipitates a climax in which the war lord is properly disposed of, and his munitions racket disposed of for all time. As a second entertainment feature the theater is presenting another episode in the amusing lives of the Jones family. Dad Jones makes a neat little sum of money and tells folks he is going on a trip to Paris Falls, but by the time he gets home the rumor has spread and changed considerably, so that he finds the family all set to go on a long planned trip to Paris, France.

Popular Trio at Ritz.

A re-issue of "Manhattan Melodrama" brings that popular trio, Clark Gable, Myrna Loy and William Powell to the Ritz for Wednesday and Thursday. The picture, made several years ago is a dramatic version of Arthur Cesar's story of the two orphans of the great Gen. Slocum excursion boat disaster, who were rescued and raised on the city streets. Each followed his own bent and one becomes a top gambler and racketeer, while the other becomes district attorney with chances for the governor's chair. A violent death for one and honor for the other is logical climax. "The Big Broadcast of 1938" brings a flock of radio and screen stars as the second feature. Among them are W. C. Fields, Martha Raye, Shirley Ross, Dorothy Lamour and Ben Blue. The high spot is the song "Thanks For The Memories."

FORM POSSES FOR MANHUNT

Angry Florida Citizens Ready to Launch Search for Boy, 5, in Swamp Lands.

but sought to find the youngster dead or alive.

In an attempt to find the child, known as "Skeegie," a community meeting was called at the schoolhouse for later today to plan the hunt. A similar meeting was called off last night at the father's request, relayed through agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation and local authorities. Merchants closed their stores and everything was done to discourage the congregation of crowds.

Waits In Apartment.

Cash moderately well-to-do merchant and filling station operator, secluded himself in his frame apartment house to await word from the kidnapers. His wife was near prostration.

The father's last excursion had been to make a solitary drive at dawn Tuesday over a route mapped in a ransom note to drop the $10,000 in small bills, reportedly packed in a shoe box, at a signal from twinkling lights.

The spot where the ransom was paid was east of the main highway that runs between Miami and Key West, between the road and the shore of Biscayne bay a few miles away. The location led to speculation whether the kidnapers might have escaped in a small boat with the money.

If this was the procedure and if the blue-eyed youngster had not been killed it was thought likely he would have been set free somewhere in a countryside consisting of vast fields, where truck crops are grown for the winter markets.

The farms at this time of the year are deserted—overgrown with weeds as high as a man's head, the ground under water in many places. The few dwellings are widely scattered.

sembly was enacting a program for 1939.

The committee asserted that county commissioners should be empowered to supervise a centralized administration of aid for the needy, instead of vesting this authority in municipalities and townships.

The group condemned proposals for financing 1938 relief by issuing bonds in anticipation of future revenues. It said, too, that it did not believe the solution of the relief financing problem lay in reducing from 65 per cent to a simple majority the favorable vote required for the authorization of relief levies.

$6,300 of $6,500 Due on City Garbage Bills Collected.

With approximately 97 per cent of the 3,600 garbage collection bills paid, the municipal garbage department yesterday had closed third quarter collection with $6,300 of the $6,500 billing received, Fred E. Lingafelter, secretary of the water, sewer and garbage departments, announced today.

Lingafelter explained that near 100 per cent collection resulted at this season of the year because of the new customers who entered the service for the summer months.

He added that while there is no penalty for non-payment of bills, customers who have not paid are placed on the delinquent list and after today service to their homes will be discontinued.

BANK CLEARINGS TUMBLE AGAIN

Figures For May $271,000 Under Total For Previous Month.

Showing a decline for the second consecutive month, Mansfield bank clearings dropped to $5,836,404 in May, approximately 60 per cent of last year's totals for the same month.

Figures released by H. A. McElhaney, secretary of the clearing house association, show a drop last month of $271,600 from the April figures and a decline of $3,532,025 from May, 1937.

Total clearings for the first five months of the year are $30,275,692 or approximately $14,000,000 below the figure for the same period a year ago.

maneuvers over the park at 3 p. m. Sunday.

James Brownscombe will be master of ceremonies for the Sunday program and bands from Prospect park, Senior high school and the Madison township school will play concerts at intervals during the afternoon and evening.

Other highlights of the program will be the presentation of the flag pole to the park association by the American Legion at 2 p. m., presentation of a 6 by 10 foot flag by the Daughters of Union Veterans at 2:10 p. m., diving exhibition at 3:30 p. m., and tennis matches at 5 p. m.

In charge of Russell Von Weider, park swimming pool superintendent and instructor, the diving exhibition will feature Eddie McVehil, of Canton, state diving champion, and Tony Schadek, Mansfield, former North Central Ohio champion. Von Weider, former member of the U. S. Olympic diving team, will don an old-fashioned bathing suit and perform a comedy act on the diving board.

Arranged by Vic Alderson, the tennis matches will bring Andrew Meldrun, Cleveland tennis champ, here to play in one of the matches. Local stars who are expected to appear include Miss Janie Kuhn, Miss Lois Baughman, Bob Enos, W. C. Slabaugh, Thornton Moore and Warner Peterson.

The committee in charge of the dedicatory program is comprised of Frank Mitsch, Jr., L. A. Cook and Mrs. D. D. Orewiler, while members of the reception committee are Mayor C. M. Hunter, R. W. Vaughn, Judge Huston, Fifth ward Councilman Fred Miller and George Marshall, president of the Liberty Park association.

Attend Graduation—Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Sheriff, 107 Penn avenue, attended graduation exercises yesterday of the Graduate School of Theology at Oberlin college during which their son, Rev. Charles F. Sheriff, pastor of St. Matthew's Lutheran church, received the degree of Master of Sacred Theology.

TELLS ROTARY OF SHIPS, SEAS

World Traveler Addresses Club at Luncheon Meeting.

Because London water is not good for making coffee and New York water is not suitable for making tea, some of each is carried on transatlantic liners, Richard Barker, of Columbus, told Mansfield Rotarians Tuesday noon at their luncheon meeting in his address on "Ships and Seas."

A world traveler, with a record of having journeyed almost a million miles by water, 100,000 miles by land and 30,000 by air, Barker gave a close-up view of a big passenger ship being made ready for a voyage across the ocean, and also gave information about such trips.

Charles Siegenthaler was chairman of the meeting at which W. L. Miller, club president, presided.

Pledge Aid to 'Little Business' In Wage-Hour Bill

FAIR ENOUGH!

Never Again Should We Give Anyone Vote-Buying Power Roosevelt Has

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—Nobody can seriously object to a president's expression of a desire for senators and congressmen who will do as he orders.

If the president is a man who, like Adolf Hitler, considers himself to be all-knowing, then he is only being consistent and, in a queer way, honest, when he asks for a purely nominal legislature, committed beforehand to every proposal which he may present. What he asks, in that case, is absolute personal power to pack the courts and influence the ballot by blanket appropriations of billions with which to buy votes.

If a president has that opinion of himself and that ambition, it is his right to address the voters through his stooges, or even directly under his own name, with an appeal that he be made supreme. Other dictators abolish legislatures entirely, but each to his own whim, and an American president-dictator might prefer to preserve the form. If he were 100 per cent successful in his appeal, however, the preservation of the form would represent a great unnecessary expense.

Knowing that any White House bill would have the effect of a decree, he might, in the interests of economy, efficiency and speed, devise a bank check "aye" to be autographed by each member at the start of each session, and then send them all home and apply that indorsement to all his commands. Multiply Minton of Indiana and Pepper of Florida by a sufficient number and that would be the character of the United States congress.

It is idle to argue that a president does wrong to ask the people to give him such powers, disguising the appeal in the form of White House indorsement in support of individual candidates. He is within his right, but it is then up to the people to analyze his request and his motives, weigh the effects and decide whether they want to abandon their accustomed form of government to the will of one man.

There is legitimate objection, however, against the use of government money, the people's own money, to buy this power from them at the polls. This is the point that is purposely ignored in all the arguments in favor of President Roosevelt's interference in state politics. There were those who, in the beginning of the New Deal, were cynical enough to suggest that a president with billions at his disposal would not always hew to the line of human needs in spending that money, but would yield to the temptation to use it to buy further authority. That seemed utterly unthinkable then, for the people did not know Mr. Roosevelt very well. Nevertheless, this was predicted, and the predictions have been borne out.

Since then, succor has become a political work, and Harry Hopkins, the greatest individual employer in the country, has dropped a hint to the dependent voters of Iowa, which may be interpreted as an admonition to vote right. A similar hint from Henry Ford to his employees would be considered outrageous, and might cause him to be yanked up. It is the sort of hint which has been denounced by New Dealers as vicious arrogance in the case of private employers, except that in this case the warning amounts to a vote-buying proposition very thinly disguised.

That is what all the shouting is for. It isn't that a president must keep a still tongue in his head and pretend to be impartial in state elections. But no man ever should have been given such vote-buying power and the power should never be placed in any man's hands again.

That money can never buy the people anything one-half so precious as what they are asked to sell.

'Problem Boy' Faces New Quiz In Slaying

VIEWS BODY OF GIRL, 6, ADMITS HE KILLED HER

Cincy Newsboy Nonchalant as He Confesses Beating Child With Piece of Tin.

BULLETIN

CINCINNATI —(AP)— Prosecutor Dudley M. Outcalt announced today he had obtained a written confession from Lindberg Heist, 15, that he stabbed six-year-old Shirley Ann Woodburn to death with a knife because of fear that she would betray his improper advances.

(By Associated Press)

CINCINNATI — A 15-year-old "problem boy" paced his county jail cell with a smile and apparently nonchalant today as authorities pressed for further details of a confession which Police Capt. Patrick Hayes said he made that he beat Shirley Ann Woodburn, 6, to death with a piece of tin.

The stocky, bespectacled Lindberg Heist repeated twice the story of the brutal slaying yesterday, but Prosecutor Dudley M. Outcalt said he would question him further today. He will be arraigned before Police Judge William E. Handley tomorrow.

Although a first degree murder warrant was signed against the youth, a question remained whether he would be turned over to juvenile authorities or prosecuted as an adult.

Says He's Sane.

"While I believe the boy's story and that he may be a sadist," said Outcalt, "I am satisfied that he is legally sane. The most I would ask of a jury would be second-degree murder, which would segregate the lad for life and prevent further manifestations of his atrocious tendencies."

The boy gave his age to police as 15. Mrs. Betty Lou Trent, his mother by a previous marriage, insisted that he was 14. Detectives said at one time during their questioning he gave his age as 16.

Meanwhile, funeral services were planned for tomorrow for golden-haired Shirley Ann.

Facing her battered body at a funeral home yesterday, Heist sobbed for a moment and said:

"That's my job, I done it."

Hayes quoted the boy as saying:

"I ran after her and ran into a tree and hit my head. I picked up a piece of tin and threw it at her. It hit her in the back and she fell down. I picked up the piece of tin and jabbed and jabbed it in."

A newspaper distributor reported that Heist sold 100 "extras" telling of Shirley Ann's death Monday.

"He didn't seem to have any special interest in the story," said George Geiger, newspaper supply man. "He seemed all right to me."

Up and Down THE STREET

It has been nearly 10 years since G. M. Singleton played his last tune on the Ohio theater organ, but he hasn't lost the knack. Singleton, who now resides in Washington, D. C., was in the city on a visit the other day and, naturally, one of his stops was at the theater where he played many an hour prior to the advent of the talkies. After attending one of the final shows, Singleton again sat at the organ and although he hasn't seen one since he left Mansfield, he handled it with his old time skill.

At least, that's his guess. He says, with something like panic in his voice, that he doesn't know whether to put 'em in a bird cage or tie 'em out to pasture. What he really wants, is some kind-hearted Mansfield boy to adopt the horned toad family. They make grand pets—if you care for horned toads.

The name of William R. Tingley, 94-year-old Civil war veteran was omitted in yesterday's account of the Memorial day parade, and while the name of one person may not seem particularly important in a parade, it was important in this case, because the aged veteran was one of the three most honored men in the line of march, and because it is a real effort for the gallant lads of 1861 to get out these days for a parade. Mr. Tingley and his two comrades, Christopher Frye, 98, and Commander George Fisher, 94, were the only Civil war veteran in the parade.

An aftermath of Memorial Day this year is that patriotic organizations discovered several graves of veterans that had never been marked and an effort will be made to locate the grave of every veteran in the county. The Sons of Union Veterans, through their correspondent, Harry Constance, have issued an appeal to anyone who knows of a veteran's grave that is not marked as such to notify him or any member of the organization.

SENATE GROUP TO FIGHT FOR BROAD SCALE

Committee Meets Tomorrow to Draw Compromise; Uniform Standards Main Issue.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON —(AP)—President Roosevelt asked today that congress impose "no restrictions" over the administration of relief funds provided in the $3,247,000,000 spending-lending bill.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—"Little business" won assurances from senate conferees today that they would fight for elastic wage-hour standards in order to protect its interests.

Senators Thomas (D-Utah), Walsh (D-Mass.), and Pepper (D-Fla.) said many small merchants and manufacturers had declared they could not continue to operate if they had to provide the same minimum wages and maximum hours as larger firms.

The three senators are among members of a joint committee which will begin tomorrow to draft compromise wage-hour legislation. The major issue is whether nationally uniform standards shall be offered.

Walsh, pointing out that 68 per cent of the nation's business firms employ less than 20 persons each, said any compromise bill should consider the ability of an employer to adjust himself to its provisions over a period of months or years.

Urges Board.

Thomas, chairman of the senate labor committee, urged that a board be created to make exceptions where rigid standards would bring unemployment.

The senate bill provides for such a board, but the house measure fixes scales of pay and hours which would apply alike to virtually all industries and to all sections of the country.

Noting that the senate-house committee has wide powers to rewrite the legislation, Senator Pepper said he thought it should be broadened "to provide some stimulation for small businesses in remote sections of the country."

From Representative Ramspeck (D-Ga.) another conferee, came a prediction that the house group, if faced with the alternative of accepting a bill with wage differentials or no bill at all, would choose the former.

Senate chieftains hope to pass by tomorrow night the $3,247,000,000 relief and public works bill—the only major legislation besides the wage-hour bill still on the calendar.

Hollywood Speaks—

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—You hear good tales and bad tales about everybody in Hollywood. Stars get catalogued, in this Ready Gossip factory, as "nice guys" or "sourpusses"—depending mainly on how they act toward the people who have to work with them.

Let a "nice guy" once upstage an underling and the ensuing racket is easily identified—reputation being hammered on the anvil of a whispering campaign.

There is one girl in town for whom I've never heard a good word except from her press agent. Worst thing she ever did was to have a character actor fired from her picture for "blowing up" in his lines a few times. The poor fellow hadn't worked in a year. The job meant so much that he was nervous.

But on the other hand—what fan, reading that Katharine Hepburn took a blow-up rap herself to save a minor actor embarrassment, isn't going to think kindly of Hepburn?

The helping hand from one actor to another is one of Hollywood's tritest themes. It isn't always given. Stars are human, subject to jealousies, petty irritations, fits of temper, all the unpleasant aspects of personality that make the human species interesting.

But it was in Gary Cooper's contract that he get top billing in Marlene Dietrich's first Hollywood movie, and he signed it away readily to give Dietrich the break. Same went for William Powell, at whose insistence Luise Rainer shared the star spot in her first. Both gentlemen were wise—contractually, they needn't have been.

"Kid Gallahad" was one of last year's successes. The three stars in it—Bette Davis, Humphrey Bogart, Edward G. Robinson—were none too enthusiastic about the script. All figured the choice role would be that of the young fighter. They all felt better when they learned the role had been given to a new kid named Morris. They all pitched in to help Morris make the hit he did.

Little tips here and there, suggestions, occasional scenes thrown his way when they needn't have been, Davis and Bogart didn't expect much from the picture anyway, but Robinson thought it would be his meat. After the preview, when Wayne Morris was the hit, Eddie G. wasn't too happy. But could you blame him?

BOMBS TAKE BIG TOLL IN SPAIN

Nationalist, Loyalist Planes Spread Death in Northeast; 300 Die at Granollers.

(By United Press)

HENDAYE, FRENCH-SPANISH FRONTIER—Nationalist and loyalist airplanes, their operations reaching a new peak of fury, spread destruction and death through northeastern Spain and the Balearics Islands today, and fought each other in giant fleets over the Catalonian battle lines.

The town of Granollers, north of Barcelona, was plunged into mourning as the result of a nationalist air raid yesterday. It was estimated that 300 persons in all were killed and 800 wounded.

The British merchant steamship Penthames lay at the bottom of Valencia harbor, sunk by a direct hit of a national aerial bomb. Nearby, beached, was the smouldering hulk of the French merchantman El Djem, hit in a previous raid.

Raids on Barcelona, Sagunto, Castellon de la Plana, San Adrian and Baddalona in loyalist territory had been reported in the last 24 hours.

The loyalists asserted that their planes bombed the nationalist airdrome at Cenia, on the coast near the mouth of the Ebro river, the airdrome at Inda, on Majorca Island in the Balaerics, and the port of Palma, chief city of Majorca. It was asserted that three nationalist ships were set on fire at Palma.

Brucks sentenced for murder from Highland county, escaped by menacing Guard Michael Cossell with a razor. He was apprehended shortly after stealing an automobile in Ottawa.

ONE-ROOM SCHOOLS GIVEN NEW LEASE ON LIFE BY COUNTY BOARD

Little red schoolhouses in Butler and Bloominggrove townships will escape the centralization movement for at least another year, Boyd Robinson, county superintendent, said today.

County schools in the two townships were given a new lease on life by the county board of education which decided on the delay after a proposal to close a number of the schools brought a barrage of protests from the districts.

The county board's plan would have created a new four-township district, comprising Weller, Franklin, Butler and Bloominggrove townships, which would be served by a new $200,000 high school located near the center of the area.

The present Adario and Union rural (Franklin-Weller townships) districts would be used as grade buildings for the pupils in the district, with all of the one-room schools to be closed.

Major opposition to the re-districting plan came from the Union board which contended there was not space in the present building to accommodate any additional pupils brought there by centralization.

Residents of the Adario community also protested vigorously, finally winning back their first grade high school charter which had been revoked by the state department of education.

In every case the parents and boards of education contended that their school is the center of their community life and that a new high school building is out of the question under present financial conditions.

ENDS OWN LIFE

Loudonville Man Found Dead in His Car From Poison.

LOUDONVILLE — Dr. George Emery, Ashland county coroner, today returned a verdict of suicide by poisoning in the death of Cecil Emery, 26, of Loudonville, a mechanical engineer.

Emery was found seated in his car on Mt. Vernon avenue at 10 p. m. yesterday. An empty 2-ounce bottle which had contained poison was found beside him, Loudonville authorities said.

He had been dead about 15 minutes when Marshall R. G. Schnittke removed him to the office of a physician, it was said.

Surviving are two children, Wilma and Gerald; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Emery, southwest of Loudonville, and a sister, Mrs. Iva Smith of Perrysville.

The body will be removed to the home of his sister in Perrysville tonight. Service will be held at the Perrysville Lutheran church at 2:30 p. m. Friday with Rev. George Schrack officiating. Burial will be in the Greenlawn cemetery.

$400 QUOTA SET

Red Cross to Seek Funds to Aid Chinese War Refugees.

A quota of $400 has been assigned the Richland County Red Cross in the national campaign to raise $1,000,000 to save Chinese civilians from starvation, Roy R. Spetka, chairman of the county chapter, said today.

The Red Cross has established headquarters in a number of Chinese cities where the suffering among war refugees is most acute and is already at work to relieve suffering from hunger and to administer sanitary and medical emergency relief. Almost a quarter of a million dollars already has been spent by the American Red Cross in its work in China.

Spetka said that no plans had been made for a drive to raise the money as officials hoped it would be contributed without the necessity for a campaign. Several small gifts were received early this week. Contributions may be made at the office or by telephone.

CHAPTER XIX

"It seems too bad you haven't been able to do it then," Larry observed demurely. "It sounds much more picturesque than playing on an adding machine."

"Doesn't it? I haven't given up hope, yet."

"Have you been abroad, Mr. Odell?" Muriel inquired.

"Once. For less than two months, though. And I didn't see the Alps except on postal cards. That's why I've got to get back."

"I'm hoping to go next summer for a few weeks . . . probably just England and France," Muriel told him almost wistfully. "I've been looking forward to it for so long."

• • •

Clay looked at her curiously, the light from the hall was shining on her face. An attractive woman, he was thinking to himself. A very sweet face. Too bad that life had treated her so badly, if that Case girl's account were true. A woman who could be constant to a lost love would probably have enjoyed a happy marriage. Queer how life went. He never had thought much of love or marriage for himself until he met this slim white-clad girl in the shadows by his side. And, now, he seemed to be able to think of little else. How in the world he ever would make her understand how serious he was, he didn't know. It was the most important thing in the world right now.

After that, the conversation seemed to be harder to sustain. Larry produced the candy box in desperation and the four solemnly sampled its contents and pronounced them good.

Muriel was the first to leave with a murmured excuse and, a few moments later, Mrs. Layne remembered something she must tell Muriel and rose to go.

"It has been very nice to see you Mr. . . . Odell," she was careful to say. "I hope you will come again soon."

"Oh, I will," he returned, getting to his feet with a little bow. "Thank you and good night" He remained standing until the screen door closed. "I like your lady mother very much," he told Larry, as he resumed his place at her side. "I'm partial to mothers. I scarcely remember mine. And your sister is most attractive. I like all your family. I've had several little chats with your brother, too."

"We're a nice lot, as families go" Larry admitted.

"But I still prefer you," he confided. "Haven't changed your mind about doing something with that moon, have you? It will be up soon."

"I think not. I believe you said something in your note. . . ."

"Oh, yes. I hesitated a little about sending it. But I did want to see you tonight and I thought it might be a little more fair to serve notice."

"Something important . . . if I remember." Larry trusted that last sounded convincing.

"Of course it's important," Clay insisted. He lowered his voice a trifle. "Larry, I've worried a lot about . . . last night. Oh, not about anything I told you, but because I had to tell you so suddenly. I know, better than ever tonight, that it's all true. But it seems almost unfair to love anybody so . . . so prodigiously and have no reason in the world to think that they could care. Much. It is pretty unfair, isn't it?"

"Yes," said a low voice.

"I know it," Clay sighed. "I wouldn't be here so soon again, dear, if I didn't realize that I may not have so many more chances to see you. You can't believe what each chance means to me now. I've got to take the risk of making you tired of me and sending me away. I know that I can't ask you for anything, but I want so that you should learn to care a little . . . just a little. If you can tell me that, I can be as patient as I have to. More than that, it seems to me that I could go out and beat the world. . . ."

There was no reply.

"It's rather a funny thing, Larry. As much as I want your love, I really believe I . . . Oh, I don't know how to say ti. I guess I'm trying to say that I want you to be terribly sure, the same as I am. It's got to be for always, you know. I honestly think I'd be content right now to know that you . . . well, that you didn't hate me and that sometime, maybe, you could learn to care."

"Of course I don't hate you!" Larry broke out, a little desperately. "How could I? I mean why should I?"

"I'm gladder of that than I can tell you. Do you think you could ever learn to . . . to like me?"

"I like you now. I think you know that. But I . . . I can't tell you anything else. It's all so . . . mixed up."

"I know. I felt that way when I first realized it all. Now, it's clear to me. If you could only tell me that I might hope. . . ."

"But, Clay, how can I when I don't know? I want to be fair and honest, but I . . . I'm not sure that I know what love is, even. I've never thought much about it . . . like that. I'd have to be ever so sure."

"There's one thing you can tell me, Larry, if you will. I have no right to ask that, either. But . . . is there someone else?"

"No."

"Thank you, dear. That means more to me than you guess. At least, it gives me a fighting chance. That's all I can ask for, and the right to see you now and then." Larry could not see his features, but she knew he was smiling as he added: "I promise not to keep on being quite so persistent as I've started out this week. I'll try not to annoy you too much, but I've got to see you often as I may in the time that's left me. And that's all I'm going to say about it tonight. Except to tell you that I do . . . . very dearly."

He fell silent for a little, as if in hope that Larry would say something in reply. He both wished and feared she might. At least, she didn't appear to be angry. And that was something. After a little, he remarked thoughtfully:

"I've about reached a conclusion, Larry . . . another one, I mean. It's about my uncle."

"Yes?" Larry's tone was polite, but listless.

"I believe I would be wise to try to get him to end that contract. The whole thing is more or less a farce. It's doing neither one of us any good and I'm losing time. Right now, that is one thing I feel that I can't afford. I want to get busy at something that I can put my heart in."

"Don't you think you might be making a mistake . . . leaving your uncle, I mean? After all, it's a job."

"No, I don't believe I am, Larry. Now that neither of us are working for the old gentleman, so to speak, I don't mind telling you just how I feel about him. Making money with that plant is his only idea in life. I don't believe he ever has considered anybody's welfare, unless there was something in it for him. That's a mean thing to say, but I think it's true. Suppose I stay. All right, I might work myself into a good berth in time. But it would be because I molded myself into his pattern. And I won't do it. Result? Friction. It isn't worth it."

"Perhaps you don't understand Mr. Wardlaw altogether."

"I wish I wasn't so sure. Maybe I'm a little queer. I don't dislike being under obligations to anyone I can respect, obligations I think I can pay off in loyalty, if not in cash. But that doesn't go for my honorable uncle. I don't want to be under obligations to a man who has so little regard for the other fellow when it comes to business. I'd rather get less out of the game for myself and have a fairly easy conscience. See what I mean, don't you?"

"Yes. . . . But it still seems too bad. After all, he's so alone."

"So am I, if you mean family. If you mean friends, it's mostly his own fault if he has none. He'd even want me to be like that. I'd be about as happy as that inane-looking iron dog he has on the front lawn. That's funny, too." Clay chuckled.

"What is funny?"

"I've noticed uncle several times of an evening. He like to stroll around outside and he's almost sure to sit down on that dog's back for a time."

"It's the view over the lake."

"I'm not so sure. I think they're buddies, sort of. The mutt never talks back. Besides, he's nice and cold and hard."

"I don't think that is very nice." Larry was obliged to smile to herself in the darkness. Mr. Wardlaw and his pet were something alike after all.

"Well, anyway," Clay concluded, "I'm going to have it out with the old gentleman as soon as I get the chance. If he doesn't agree, I'll be sorry. And if he does, I'll be sorry . . . . means I'll have to dig out. You know, Larry, you were quite right when you said everything was mixed up. It is. . . . I'll let you know what he has to say, if I may."

"I wish you would."

"Then that gives me a legitimate excuse for a return visit fairly soon. I promise it won't be tomorrow night, though. That reminds me. I must look at the almanac Annie has hanging by the kitchen door. I'm getting romantic, I guess. But I still have an overwhelming desire to see you sitting in the end of the canoe again . . . . moonlight on your hair instead of the yellow rubber cap. I'd like that better than anything I can think of."

"Better than blowing a horn in the Alps?" Larry was torn by an hysterical desire to laugh . . . or weep. She was not at all sure which.

"Oh, the Alps?" Clay dismissed them with a gesture, as he rose to his feet. "The Alps can wait a bit. When the time comes . . . you're going with me Good night."

HELP STOMACH DIGEST FOOD
Without Laxatives—and You'll Eat Everything from Soup to Nuts

The stomach should digest two pounds of food daily. When you eat heavy, greasy, starchy or rich foods or when you are nervous, hurried or chew poorly—your stomach pours out too much fluid. Your food doesn't digest and you have gas, heartburn, nausea, pain or sour stomach. You feel sour, sick and upset all over.

Doctors say never take a laxative for stomach pain. It is dangerous and foolish. It takes those little black tablets called Bell-ans for Indigestion to make the excess stomach fluids harmless, relieve distress in 5 minutes and put you back on your feet. Relief is so quick it is amazing and our 25c package proves it. Ask for Bell-ans for Indigestion.

BUILDING TOPS $100,000 MARK AGAIN IN MAY

Construction Work in City for First 5 Months of '38 Only $30,000 Under 1937.

Despite a business recession, building valuation figures in Mansfield during May passed the $100,000 mark for the third consecutive month to bring the total valuations for the first five months of this year to $457,145, about $30,000 less than was recorded for this same period in 1937, a survey of building permits showed today.

New Home Building Drops.

The number of new homes under construction, however, is less than last year, with valuations in this field off nearly $90,000. Forty-three new residences have been started so far this year with an estimated valuation of $280,000, as compared with 59 homes valued at $371,450 in the corresponding period last year.

Total cost for all building projects for the five-month period last year, including remodeling work, alterations, residential, business and industrial construction, was shown at $187,058 as compared with the $157,145 for the same period in 1938.

May building this year, listed at $115,015, was approximately $2,000 more than the $113,334 recorded for April, but nearly $75,000 below the valuation figures for May, 1937.

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 1, 1938.

No way has been discovered to escape punishment for violation of Nature's laws.

For those who like three holidays in a row, this year's calendar is exceptionally propitious.

The problem of relief agencies is not new, for, as Paul remarked to the Thessalonians, " . . . If any would not work, neither should he eat; for we hear that there are some which walk among you disorderly, working not at all." And it may also be recalled that Capt. John Smith had similar trouble during the settlement of Jamestown.

A Town Without Politics.

MAYOR HAGUE of Jersey City is not the only unusual phenomenon in the state of New Jersey. Equally worthy of note—and more worthy of national approval—is the Glen Ridge, N. J., conference committee which has just marked its twenty-fifth anniversary.

The committee is a nonpartisan organization dedicated to the cause of filling municipal offices with well-qualified candidates. It was founded a quarter of a century ago by a Democratic editor and a Republican industrial executive. Today the committee of 24 comprises four members each from the Women's club, the Republican club, the Democratic club, the Home and School association, the South End association and the Battalion Forum.

The committee names a municipal slate in which political considerations plays no part. Since its establishment, the committee has always been upheld in its choice by both major parties. Glen Ridge officials, it may be assumed, run the town's affairs honestly and efficiently. Without adopting a city manager form of government the local citizens seem to have attained some of its objectives.

Moving Toward Collapse?

AN ALARMING NOTE comes from Geneva. Harold B. Butler, director of the international labor office there, while predicting early business recovery for the United States, is worried about the world in general and even about our own fate in the not very distant future.

War is blocking progress all over the earth, he says, and threatens to produce a "total collapse."

He points out that war "is already invading the social field," referring presumably to its effects on social organization, economics and government. "It has already blocked some of the main avenues of advance, and may soon begin to sap the social edifice which this generation has raised. Should another general war break out, a total collapse is practically certain."

It might be profitable for people in general to try visualizing what "total collapse" would be like. Few could form a clear picture of it, but the effort might inspire more tolerance and co-operation among citizens and nations.

Humane Bombing.

CHINESE AVIATORS flew over Japanese cities the other day, but they dropped leaflets instead of bombs. Their printed appeals urged the Japanese people to oppose the invasion of China and to check the operations of their military group.

The flight must have had other results. It demonstrated to Japanese authorities and the common people how easy it would be for Chinese aviators to drop deadly bombs on Japanese cities. The air men covered a total distance of 2,500 miles, the longest continuous flight ever made by Chinese aviators.

When they returned they were received as heroes by the premier, the war minister and a delegation of other Chinese leaders.

It is said that real bombing has been considered, but that Chinese leaders are opposed to such action. Though some of their own cities have been ruthlessly bombed, the Chinese apparently do not accept the conclusion that they are justified in making inhumane reprisals.

To Regulate Bicycle Traffic.

POLICE officials of a midwestern city and its suburbs have decided to combine efforts in the cause of safety. As a starter they are drawing up a bicycle code to be adopted by all the municipalities in the county. It is expected to provide a uniform system of licensing and regulating bicycle operation, with penalties for violation of traffic rules, and a requirement that riders under twelve years keep to the sidewalks and off the streets.

The bicycle is such a convenient and wholesome means of individual transportation and recreation that there is no thought of banning it outright. But misuse of bicycles has become so dangerous to riders themselves, and to others in traffic, that strict regulation is necessary. With greater foresight at the beginning of the automobile and highway expansion period, the authorities might have built footpaths and bicycle paths along all roads when the roads were paved and widened. Lacking such separation of big and little, swift and slow traffic, other safety precautions must be taken now.

Librarian's Holiday.

SPEAKING of postmen's holidays, and such, there is the case of Linda Eastman, who has spent 46 years as a librarian, and for the last 20 has been head of the Cleveland public library, containing 2,000,000 books.

Retiring now, full of years and honors, Miss Eastman says she hopes to get a little reading done.

"People never understand why I want to read when I'm away from the library," she says. "But they don't realize how little time I have had to enjoy reading. There have been mountains of reports to read, miles of book reviews—and miles of interesting books coming in and going out, without my having more than a look at them. When I have time, there's nothing I enjoy more than reading a good book."

It rather shames a person who has a good book, and plenty of time, but never takes it off the shelf.

It may be assumed that recognition of Mussolini's claim to Ethiopia does not carry any guarantee against losses.

A Texas convict, awaiting the electric chair, died of fright—which simplified the whole thing.

Keeping Step

—By LESLIE EICHEL

EVERYBODY wires President Roosevelt these days. Wires him for action. Presumably every conference is interrupted with a call for his personal aid. And, evidently, he does see the messages and does make notations.

When Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City is accused of violation of civil rights, the president is called upon for (1) the department of justice to take legal action against the Jersey Democratic boss, and (2) to force him outside the pale of the Democratic party.

When police charge tire strike pickets in Akron, O., the vice president of the union urges the president to take a hand against local officials and the company.

When a candidate in the primaries (any state) bases his campaign on the New Deal and tries to oust an anti-New Dealer, he tries to obtain either a direct or indirect endorsement.

And so on down the line.

HAGUE

As for "Dictator" Hague, his rule is likely to crumble suddenly at the end of the year. He is an anachronism, even in this day of distators. The Roosevelt administration may do nothing openly to unseat him, but it may encourage publicity that will be fatal to Hague. It can also begin to starve him on federal patronage, as it did Tammany in New York.

Hague has tossed the bill of rights out of the window, his opponents say. And, some of the shrewdest political observers add, he also has tossed himself out of the window.

DANGER SIGN

The Akron clash between police (largely private) and pickets is looked upon by many observers as a danger signal.

Efforts to reduce wages, under the threat of moving an industry elsewhere, will result in bloodshed—and wildest disorders.

The greatest efforts of the Roosevelt administration during the summer will be to stabilize the wage rates—and to induce companies to bargain on the basis of unreduced rates.

ELECTION

It is dangerous to prophesy primary election results.

But observers in the field see no harm to the Roosevelt administration and its department heads (who evidently speak for the president) endorsing New Deal candidates.

If the New Dealer wins the administration is 100 per cent gainer. If he loses, the administration is no worse off than it was previously, with an anti-New Dealer in office.

And the reason the opposition makes so much fuss about endorsements by department heads of New Dealers is the fact it realizes the Roosevelt administration does carry weight with voters.

The administration frankly expects to win most of the contests. And a dispatch to the London Times from New York says that Wall Street expects the New Dealers to win the majority of primary contests.

Closer Together.

A MAN who had suffered ups and downs in his life said this to me, and I have never forgotten it:

Young man (he said) I have had many troubles in my many years, and most of them were my own fault. I have been down so far that I thought I'd never be able to climb up again. I have been up so far, within the limits of my own powers, that I thought I was secure for life and nothing could shake me loose. . . . Out of my experience I have learned that it is always possible to fall, always possible to climb. . . . But there have been times when I wanted to give up. I felt so lonely, beaten, broken and self-hating that it seemed a useless effort to get on my feet again.

Always, however, I noticed one thing. In my adversity, those who loved me seemed closer to me. As the world retreated from me and seemed less friendly, my family drew around me and my love for them was both comfort and stimulation . . . Whenever I have been high and mighty and thought I had the world by the tail, I have neglected my loved ones. I do not mean that I have run away from them, deprived them of support, been cruel. But spiritually I have separated myself from them, had less time for them.

But whenever I tripped and fell, my need for them drew forth my love for them and their love for me . . . and in some ways life was sweeter for the companionship that was mine at such times. Because I needed them they were dearer and our relationship was enriched.

Finally that precious fact was knocked into my stubborn head. And in my ups as well as my downs I held my family close about me, and we suddenly realized that we were happier than we had ever been before. . . . I think my wife always knew that, but my son understood it before I did. One day he told me that he felt closer to me than he had been when he was a boy. He said he was glad to be my son and glad I was his father. I was proud when he told me that and it set me to thinking. I looked back over my life, counting the years, and realized that it had only been in the last ten of fifteen years that I was a rounded human being. I had never been a truly Good Provider until I understood that the members of my own family were the most essential people in the world to my own happiness.

Government and Public Utilities

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON — A high-up representative of the private power interests drifted the other day into the National Press club, of which he is an associate member, and was introduced by a fellow member to a third member with whom the power representative did not happen to have been previously acquainted.

"his chap," remarked the mutual friend, in jocular identification of the power man, "is with the power trust. That is to say, he is against the government."

"You put it," rejoined the powerite, "the wrong way around. The government is against us."

THEY'RE SINCERE

My opinion is that the private power and utility folk sincerely believe this.

That they do (if they do) believe it, their belief proves nothing much as to the merits of the controversy. Public power-ites have long contended that private power has far over-charged its customers for years. Admitting (merely for the sake of argument) that they have been doing so, maybe the government is right in being against them.

Any stick-up man is justified in believing that the government is against him.

NOT ON A PAR?

Practically speaking, the big power interests and retail stick-up men are not on a par.

Pewee stick-up men can be suppressed with no damage to national business.

The private power spokesmen point out that they cannot get capital to invest itself in their companies while they are under fire. Consequently they cannot expand and improve, as they say they would like to do—and as I presume that they WOULD like to do, too.

Thus the attacks on them probably shut off their sort of development.

WATER MONOPOLY

I would guess that certain natural monopolies should be governmentalized.

I have seen governmentalized railroads, telegraphs and telephones work remarkably well in foreign countries. In THIS country I would surmise that waterworks ought to be municipalized. As basic a necessity as water, surely ought to be available almost absolutely free in a civilized community—possibly barring taxation for faucet and fire-butt pressure. Yet, in my home town of Alexandria, Va., water costs about as much as gas or electricity. It is a private monopoly. Water!

The late Senator Robert B. Howell of Nebraska maintained that ice ought to class as water—since it WAS water, frozen. And, as city engineer of Omaha, he did establish a municipal ice plant.

SENATORS CLASHED

For some strange reason Senators Howell and George W. Norris (still surviving) never did get along well together.

They agreed in principle but clashed in practice.

Senator Norris considered Senator Howell a reactionary, though Senator Howell verged on being public-ownership advocate. Senator Howell was "pro" Senator Norris' program in general but deemed it cuckoo in detail.

* * *

TODAY OR TOMORROW?

Just at the moment there are things that are to be done—with a view to a generation hence.

If they are done right now, however, they will involve immediate disaster—or prolonged disaster; it is bad enough at present.

Better times in future, through better figuring times today?

Or what shall we have today?—and to heck with the future!

I just had a query from a college students' magazine.

They will not have any more sense than we had in 1914-'15-'17.

Filipinos Try Law-Making.

—By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON—Freshly delivered to congress is a little bundle containing some of the first laws produced by the new and independent Philippine commonwealth. One of the initial efforts was a measure to outlaw cockfighting at polling places.

Under the new independence act, all laws enacted by the Philippine congress must be submitted to this government for approval.

They give us a close-up glance at a little country putting in its first long pants in the big wide world and if some of the output sounds trivial it must be conceded that other ideas are good and might be followed in the United States without harm.

In the pile of laws is an act abolishing the poll tax, which in times past has been used to harass voters in the same manner as once was complained of generally throughout the south. Under terms of poll tax laws in the Philippines no one could sign an official document unless he had paid his tax. It was used at times to frighten away aspiring voters who sought to approach the polls without first having paid the poll tax.

Tough on Nicknames.

ONE law prohibits a candidate from using more than one nickname on the ballot, so if Bopar bal Celeste wants to run for the job of provincial governor or mayor of Zamboango he can identify himself as Bongo Bill or the Sulton of Sulu, but not both, even when some friends call him one and some the other.

Side by side with that act is another prohibiting candidates for provincial governor or mayor from spending in the campaign more than one-third of the pay they expect to get from the office, a provision which would raise Old Ned in many a spot in this country.

Appointive officials can't run for elective office on government time. If they want to campaign they first must resign. Something besides novelty could be found in one act denying the vote to persons who cannot mark their own ballots, or another requiring voters to place their thumb mark on a detachable stub on a ballot.

To take care of any illiterates who might be bothered in marking a ballot there is an increased appropriation for new elementary schools. There is also a restriction on a gambling game something akin to the numbers business.

Soft on Prisoners.

APPROPRIATIONS are made for production and cheap distribution of various preventive serums, including "tiki tiki" to check an island ailment akin to rickets. Another bill sets up a fund for collecting folk lore and folk songs, and money is set aside to give certain employes at the Culion leper colony a 28-day vacation with pay.

Farming is the Philippine lifeline, so students of agriculture are admitted to the school of agriculture without tuition or matriculation fees.

War veterans or political favorites drawing pensions or gratuities from the government may not draw government pay for other jobs unless they give up their pensions. As much as five centavos is to be paid for each rat or mouse killed in the Manila rat extermination campaign.

An occupation tax lists lawyers, physicians, architects, engineers and insurance salesmen in the top bracket at 50 pesos annually; dentists, veterinarians and photographers in the 40 peso bracket, and pharmacists, manicurists and tattooers in the 20 pesos bracket. (The Philippine silver peso is 50 cents at par.)

Nattiest of all is a law which says: "When, in the judgment of the secretary of justice, a prisoner merits consideration, his wife, family or fiancee may be permitted to join him, and the transportation from their homes to the penal colonies may be paid."

How It Started

—By JEAN NEWTON

That Word "Category."

"This," you read in your newspaper editorial, "is not to be placed in the same category with so and so," meaning simply "in the same class."

In the history of this word we have a shining example of the romance of language. It opens for us a page of ancient Greek philosophy!

The Latin "categoria" came from the Greek "down" plus "to assert, to harangue." The original "categories" named certain classes of ancient philosophical conceptions. That sense of "classes" it is which remains in the modern use of the word. But entirely concealed is the place of the "category" in ancient philosophy and its significance in the parlance of the study of Logic as "one of the highest classes to which the objects of thought or knowledge can be reduced!"

Is Young America a Godless Generation?

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

YOUNG AMERICA is a bunch of pleasure-loving, profit-seeking young pagans without any religious standards."

There's a verdict that's going the rounds these days—even on the campus itself. Typical criticism comes from William Mackey, sophomore at the University of Colorado.

"Dear Miss Robinson:

"Has it occurred to you, in discussing Young America's problems, that most of the maladjustment and unhappiness of youth is caused by the current indifference to the spiritual side of life?

"I'm not referring to that period of active disbelief which comes in nearly every young life, and which is a healthy sign of development and of ultimate return to the basic precepts of Christianity.

"But how about the vast numbers of young people who are morally indifferent and never think of the spiritual life? It is they who find themselves drifting aimlessly and unhappily through life. Truly, as Dostoievsky once said—THERE IS NO MORE UNFORTUNATE BEING THAN A YOUNG MAN WITHOUT RELIGION.

"HOW CAN THE RELIGIOUS CONSCIOUSNESS BE AWAKENED IN THE YOUTH OF TODAY?"

William Mackey, 21 years,
Boulder, Colo.

I suspect it is already awakened, Bill, but few recognize the signs. The trouble seems to be that most of us differ on the definition of "religion." To older folk—whose only social center, in their youth, was the Church—religion usually means going to church, reading one's Bible, singing and following through with a general program of good deeds. Judged by such a standard, modern youngsters certainly seem to fall far short.

But if you'll probe beneath rituals . . . if you'll analyze Youth's "social consciousness" . . . if you'll measure its interest in human needs . . . YOU'LL FIND THAT THE AVERAGE YOUNG AMERICAN HAS A FAR DEEPER GRASP ON THE GREAT MORAL PROBLEMS AND OBLIGATIONS THAN HIS OWN PARENTS DID AT THE SAME AGE.

PERSONALLY, I AM CONVINCED THAT MODERN YOUNG AMERICA IS THE MOST SPIRITUALLY-MINDED GENERATION THIS NATION HAS EVEN SEEN.

There's more than one way of saying prayers, Will. One way—and a beautiful one—is to kneel at an altar. But another, perhaps even more effective by heavenly standards, is to walk into a voting booth and knock the tar out of corrupt politicians. And I also have a hunch that if God had to choose between an exhibition of high, wide n' handsome hymn singing and a bill abolishing child labor, He'd choose the child labor bill every time!

"I believe in Churches. I believe in prayers and hymns and all the noble ritual by which men have reached toward Divinity. But I also believe that 'God moves in His mysterious ways, His wonders to perform' . . . and a ragged youngster, raging against rotten tenements and starving babies, may be His agent as surely as the most "hell-fire" evangelist.

"Down through the years that 'last communion' works its blessed miracle in yearning hearts. But to Modern Youth, His body is also broken, His blood is also drunk, when we raze a slum, when we pass an Old Age Pension, when we save a baby from a beet field or coal mine.

"You laugh, perhaps . . . and cry that Youth isn't interested in such things. But I have hundreds, often thousands of unsolicited letters per day proving that it does . . . letters from 14, 16, 19, 25-year-old boys and girls, students and newlyweds, shouting for Better Government, Cleaner Politics, Healthier Homes—a living, loving brotherhood of Man.

Does this indicate a godless generation?

Or does it mean that a gentle Dreamer walks once more along the dusty, common trail . . . breaks bread again with lepers and prostitutes, beggars and fishermen . . . and offers God, not merely in the temples of the great . . . but everywhere Life wails its sin and ignorance and pain?

TRUST YOUTH!

He, too, was young!
His heart, too, was on fire!

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—From time to time this correspondent has detailed the activities of Billy Rose in his ceaseless quest for new ideas in entertainment. We have drawn chiding letters from others by setting this lad up as perhaps the most ingenuous and certainly the most unpredictable of the Manhattan producers. And there was no dearth of fact to build these stories on. For Billy not only sat up nights thinking . . . he got real ideas.

Take "Crazy Quilt." . . . No musical ever made the money "the quilt" drew at the box offices in tank towns and in major cities all over this country. . . . Then he came back to New York, started the French Casino form of entertainment, that is, the cabaret-restaurant, where you dine at tables while the actors do their stuff. . . . This was known as the Casino de Paree . . . and later came Billy Rose's Music Hall.

Well, there were imitators, as there naturally would be, for nothing is new and nothing is wholly original. . . . But things can be different, and when somebody asked him what he would do next he said: "I'll do a musical comedy of circus life"; which he did, with animals and clowns, and it was called "Jumbo."

* * *

AFTER that one came along I was talking to him and, not knowing what to expect, I inquired, "What next, Billy?"

"I'm going to do a musical comedy on water," was the astonishing reply. . . . Well, he did just that, at Cleveland. . . . It was the aquacade, the hit of the Cleveland exposition.

Meanwhile, down in Texas, he was handling the midway for the Texas exposition at Fort Worth. . . . They asked Billy back the second year to put on his fiesta.

And about that time all the New York producers were going "Billy Rose." . . . The night clubs, I mean. . . . They were striving for the unusual, the bizarre. . . . They wanted to startle people. . . . The French Casino was a great hit. . . . Then came the International Casino. . . . There were all sorts of innovations and new twists to after dark entertainment until, finally, everybody wondered where the thing would end, and, in particular, what Billy Rose would try next.

DID he fox 'em! Yes, honey, he did. A trail-blazer in new-fangled ideas, with his Jumbos and fiestas and Casa Mananas, Billy took one look at the streamlined entertainment with a through-a-looking glass complex, and pulled the neatest trick of his career. He did the very last thing anybody ever thought he would do. He simply dipped back 30 years and put on a straight vaudeville show.

Net result: box office take, $120,000 in two weeks. All the old three-a-day names when vaudeville was in blossom and the Palace was heaven are trouping on his stage. . . . It is, to me, something of a phenomenon, having never fancied vaudeville very much myself. . . . At least, I thought I didn't fancy it.

And what next, Mr. Rose? . . . He probably doesn't know himself. . . . But whatever it is, two dollars will get you five that it's the last thing in the world you expect!

Statistical Relief, Only.

The administration has expressed concern over "the large number of satistical reports which federal agencies are requiring from business and industry." Accordingly, a White House request has gone out to the central statistical board to look around among the 130 or more governmental agencies in Washington to see whether they are not running to extremes in their statistical demands upon businesses already harassed with the problem of meeting pay rolls and otherwise continuing to operate.

This is encouraging, from the statistical standpoint. Offhand, it might be assumed that any government bureau found with an oversupply of statistics would be dealt with severely—at least told to ease up somewhat and give business a chance to catch up on sending reports to the government. Here would be relief, of a kind. But did it ever occur to anybody about the national capital that the country's industries and its citizens would be helped most by relief from a part of the tax money that goes in with statistics?—Kansas City Times.

NEW CANADIAN WATERWAY PLAN STRIKES SNAG

Senators Voice Objection to Hull's Proposal for Huge Power Project.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—A new American proposal for developing the St. Lawrence waterway encountered opposition today from many of the senators who blocked the $500,000,000 project four years ago.

Secretary Hull submitted to Canada last night a revised treaty by which the two nations would construct a huge hydro-electric power project and a 27-foot channel to let seagoing vessels reach the Great Lakes basin.

The proposal differs in one major point from the treaty rejected by the senate in 1934: The United States would proceed with her share of the work at once, but Canada could wait until Dec. 31, 1949, when her power needs are greater.

Wagner Protests.

The American offer to finance construction by Canada of a waterway around International Rapids drew immediate fire from Senator Wagner (D-NY). He approved, however, Hull's suggestion that the United States build a hydro-electric project at the Rapids to supply 1,100,000 horsepower in cheap current each year for American consumers.

Senator Copeland (D-NY), the other senator from President Roosevelt's home state, announced he was against the seaway project "1,000 per cent." He called it "an all-British canal."

Senator Clark (D-Mo) pointed out that the treaty would permit diversion of only 1,500 cubic feet of water a second into the Chicago drainage canal. He said the Mississippi river must receive more water than that from the canal in order to fill a proposed nine-foot channel.

Senator Clark saw no possibility of passage.

"The senators who are interested in the development of the Mississippi are never going to agree to let commission fix the amount of water that can be diverted from the Great Lakes into the river," he declared.

The United States' share of the cost would be about $225,000,000.

DEM ASPIRANTS EYE ROOSEVELT CROSS-COUNTRY TOUR IN JULY

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — Democratic aspirants to public office from coast to coast watched the White House closely as secretaries, New Deal political advisers and railroad men worked on an itinerary that will carry President Roosevelt across country in mid-July just as primary campaigns begin waxing hot.

It appeared that the president once again was going to carry direct to the people the issues on which congress balked him—notably this year the question of government reorganization and taxation in the higher brackets—and in passing, lend aid and comfort to loyal New Dealers who face serious primary opposition.

Four fairly well established dates will carry Mr. Roosevelt into Ohio on July 8, where Senator Robert J. Bulkley has a fight on his hands; into Kentucky the day following, where Senate Majority Leader Alben W. Barkley's seat is being sought by Gov. A. B. "Happy" Chandler; into Oklahoma on July 10, where Senator Elmer Thomas has two primary opponents, and finally on to California, where Senator William Gibbs McAdoo faces a contest.

From the Pacific coast, the president probably will board a cruiser and voyage down the west coast of South America to the Galapagos Islands, off Ecuador, for a bit of deep-sea fishing, returning by way of the Panama Canal.

Such a route might well bring the chief executive back to South Carolina in early August, where Gov. Olin D. Johnston, as a "100 per cent New Dealer," is seeking the senate seat of "Cotton Ed" Smith, an administration foe on several major issues.

A Farmer's Diary

By Calvin A. Byers

AN intense rivalry for the children's affections exists between Laddie, the collie, and Nan, the gray and white goat. From the first day when a neighbor drove Nan upon the premises and assisted her down from the trailer at the rear of his car, Laddie knew that he had no use for her goatship. To begin with, the children eagerly crowded about and began to pet the new arrival, and old Laddie came, whining, and thrust his long head into my lap for consolation. I pitied him, for jealousy, even among animals is a painful emotion.

As time goes on, the breach between the two does not heal. Nan delights to plague him. She will put her ears back and rush at him to the end of her tether . . . on one occasion I saw her butt him with her hard head. The look he gave her was eloquent. It said that if she were of another sex, or if he had not been reared a gentleman, he would tear her to shreds and hang her hairy hide up to dry in the wind. The hired man came by just then, and Nan, who is very modern, began to investigate his pockets for some tobacco.

Our collection of family pets grows almost daily. To be sure, being a pet in our family is something of a strain, and they do not all survive. There was a certain crawfish which Bud found in the little ditch that crosses through the lane culvert. He carried it, in company with a huge red angleworm, for nearly a whole day in his pocket—taking them out occasionally to play with them. Alas, he put them carefully to bed in a clam shell on the porch, and in the morning both were cold and stiff.

There is a lively toad named Jiggs, who lost a leg and is calmly growing another. He lives in the tomato patch, and thrives well on leaf hoppers. And the newest addition to the collection is Mollie, the snail, who lives under the leaves of a fern which the children found in the woods and brought home to their mother.

To be a child—a group of children—on a farm, to take a whole long sunny afternoon to watch a snail, or a clam, or some minnows or a nest of ants . . . to wade and dig, and run and eat and sleep and grow . . . I think there could be nothing more interesting and vital—except to be their father.

CZECHS ORDER HUGE DEFENSIVE

Military Plan Calls for All Persons, 6 to 60, to Take War Instructions.

(By United Press)

PRAGUE — Czechoslovakia, sworn to defend its sovereignty against any attack, has incorporated all its people between the ages of six and 60 years in a gigantic defense scheme.

Closely following a blanket order that all persons, men, women and children, must equip themselves with gas masks at once, the government in a civil ordinance required all persons of both sexes from 6 to 60 to take instructions in war preparedness.

Boys and girls between 6 and 17 years must undergo training in "war morale" and gymnastics.

Boys and girls of high school age will be given actual instruction in use of weapons.

Between the ages of 17 and 60, men must devote a minimum of from 70 to 90 hours a year to war science, physical culture and first aid. Women of the same age group must take the same training for an average of 45 hours a year.

As the ordinance was issued, Czech circles reported that one reason why Karl H. Frank, lieutenant of German Minority Leader Konrad Henlein was not taking part in new negotiations with the government was that the industrial wing of Henlein's Sudeten German party opposed Frank's alleged "radicul" tendencies.

SCHOOL ENTERED

Cash Stolen, Property Damaged at Senior High.

Police today were investigating the burglary of the Mansfield Senior high school last night by thieves who obtained $8 in change and caused an undetermined amount of damage to the building.

H. D. Bishop, assistant principal at the school, said that thieves had entered the building sometime between closing hours and 6:30 p. m. by breaking a glass from an outside door on the Virginia street side of the building.

Bishop said that considerable damage, which he could not estimate, was done by the looters who forced open doors in the school office, library and restrooms, and dug several holes in the wall around the office safe which they failed to open.

He said that $8 in change was taken from the library and a portfolio from the office which had been completely ransacked.

SANDUSKY — (INS) — With a supply of serum from the state department of health on hand, an attempt was started today to immunize all residents of suburban Venice and the west side of Sandusky against the danger of typhoid.

The typhoid danger came as the result of a break in a valve connecting the city water supply with the supply pipe of an industrial plant. Through the break raw water containing a high bacteria count was pumped into city mains.

Immunization was recommended to all persons between the ages of five and 50.
